Arts Education: Taking Stock of the Future

AEP National Symposium
June 24 • Washington, DC

This one-day symposium will engage participants in an interactive discussion of major advances in arts education that have occurred since the Arts Education Partnership was founded and in recommending areas of focus and actions needed to advance the field in the future.

Location: The Symposium will be hosted by the U.S. Department of Education at their Barnard Auditorium. An evening event will follow (at a location to be identified) to honor and celebrate the exceptional leadership of Richard J. Deasy.

Hotel: A block of rooms has been reserved under “Arts Education Partnership” at the Washington Court Hotel for the nights of June 23 and 24. Please call 1-800-321-3010 to book your rooms as soon as possible to guarantee availability. The deadline for the room block is Friday, May 9, but the room block may fill up prior to that date. More information can be found at www.washingtoncourthotel.com.

Registration: Online registration will be available soon for the Symposium and evening event via AEP’s website at www.aep-arts.org.
